MAKING DIAMONDS.

TEN TONS OF GEMS.
THE "PROCES" DESCRIBED.
Mr. William Crookes, in the course of a lecture on "Diamonds," before the British Association at Kimberley, explained how the precious gems might be manufactured.
"The first necessity," he said, "is to select pure iron free from sulphur, silicon, phosphorus, &c., and to pack it in a carbon crucible which is heated by a powerful electric current.
The crucible must then be put into the body of the electric furnace. After a few minutes' heating to a temperature above 4000 deg. C., a temperature at which the iron melts like wax and volatilises in clouds, the current is stopped, and the dissolving fiery crucible is plunged beneath the surface of cold water, where it is held still it sinks below a red heat.
"The sudden cooling solidifies the outer layer of iron, and holds the inner molten mass in a tight grip. The expansion of the inner liquid on solidifying produces an enormous pressure, and under the stress of this pressure the dissolved carbon separates out in transparent forms—minutely microscopic, it is true—all the same veritable diamonds, with crystalline form and appearance, colour, hardness, and action on light the same as the natural gem."
"Bizarre as such a theory is," observed the great scientist, "I am bound to say there are many circumstances which show that the notion of the heavens raining diamonds is not impossible." In proof of this he showed the audience photographs of diamonds he had extracted from a meteorite.
"It is not uncommon," he said, "for a diamond to explode soon after it reaches the surface; some have been known to burst in the pockets of the miners or when held in the warm hand, and the loss is the greater because large stones are more liable to explode or fly in pieces than small ones.
"Valuable stones have been destroyed in this way, and it is whispered that cunning dealers are not averse to allowing responsible clients to handle or carry in their warm pockets large crystals fresh from the mine. By way of safeguard against explosion, some dealers im-bed large diamonds in raw potato to insure safe transit to England." By the end of 1904 ten tons of diamonds had come from the Kimberley mines, valued at £60,000,000 sterling. This mass of gems could be accommodated in a box five feet square and six feet high.
According to the lecturer, one of the most remarkable gems in existence is a phosphorescent diamond in possession of Mrs. Kunz, of New York, which will phosphoresce in the dark for some minutes after being exposed to a small pocket electric light, and if rubbed on a piece of cloth leaves a long streak of phosphorescence.

SIGNS OF LONGEVITY.
Every person carries about with him the physical indications of his longevity. A longlived person may be distinguished from a short-lived person at sight; in many instances a physician may look at the hand of a patient and tell whether he will live or die.

In the vegetable as well as the animal kingdom, each life takes its characteristics from the life from which it sprang. Among these inherited characteristics we find the capacity for continuing its life for a given length of time.
This capacity for living we call the inherent or potential longevity.

Under favourable conditions and environments the individual should live out the potential longevity. With unfavourable conditions this longevity may be greatly decreased, but with a favourable environment the longevity of the person, the family or the race may be increased.

Herein are presented the two leading considerations, always present and always interdependent—the inherited potentiality, and the reactionary influences of environment.

The primary conditions of longevity are that the heart, lungs and digestive organs, as well as the brain, should be large. If these organs are large, the trunk will be long and the limbs comparatively short. The person will appear tall in sitting and short in standing. The hand will have a long and somewhat heavy palm and short fingers. The brain will be deeply set, as shown by the office of the ear being low.
The blue hazel or brown hazel eye, as showing an intimation of temperament, is a favourable indication. The nostrils being large, open and free indicates large lungs. A pinched and half-closed nostril indicates small or weak lungs.

These are general points of distinction from those of short-lived tendencies but, of course, subject to the usual individual exceptions.
Still, it is well acknowledged that the characteristics noted are expressions of inherent potentiality, which have been proved on the basis of abundant statistical evidence.

In the case of persons who have short-lived parentage on one side and long-lived on the other side, the question becomes more involved. It is shown in grafting and hybridising that nature makes a supreme effort to pass the period of the shorter longevity and extend the life to the greater longevity. Any one who understands these weak and dangerous periods of life is forewarned and forearmed. It has been observed that the children of long-lived parents mature much later and are usually backward in their studies.—Medical Record.

THE CHINESE STUDENTS.

The Western world is getting a glimpse of what Japanese example is doing for China.
Japan was regenerated by applying the knowledge gained by her students in the schools and universities of the United States and Europe. That knowledge overthrew the feudal traditions, transformed the people, created representative institutions, promoted general education and made Japan a power in the world, the first Asiatic power that has existed for centuries, and the only one that has earned admission into the family of nations. It was the work of students.
In a recent issue of the San Francisco Chronicle it was remarked, in an editorial, that heretofore China has educated men in America and Europe, but on returning home they have been absorbed into the ancient system, without effecting any change in its structure. Now a different use of Western education is appearing. The Chinese students are organizing in this empire to apply their knowledge to a change in its genius and methods. They propose to retain the impressions of the new life they learned in the West, and to create a new China to face the new Japan. Their action supplies a strong reason for extending to the Chinese the opportunity and hospitality of the American schools and universities.
That the Chinese are not slow in taking advantage of the proffered hospitality is certain, inasmuch as the regular batches of students, selected from the pick of "young China" in the northern and southern provinces to proceed aboard, are detailed in as large, if not greater, numbers to American as to European public schools and colleges. Our San Francisco contemporary argues that America need not come to China for all of the material. They have it in the States in the Chinese who are domesticated among them.
There are hundreds of native-born Chinese who should be encouraged to get education there, that they may take it back to the land of their fathers for the uplifting of the blood of which they are a part. They have the extraordinary advantage of knowledge of English. The same journal advises that America should not neglect her opportunity to have her part in the lifting of China from the in-ertness of centuries into the light of modern opportunity.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

The German mail of the 25th October was delivered in London on the 22nd inst.

The sale of the property known as Nos. 54 to 62 Stone Nullah Lane, and Nos. 4 to 12 Wanchai Road, advertised to take place to-day in the offices of Messrs. Hughes and Hough, auctioneers, was abandoned, the property having been withdrawn.

The King's Park Range will be open to-morrow afternoon from 2 o'clock to 5.30 o'clock for practice shooting. There will also be a "Pool" competition and members who have not shot this month are reminded that this is the last shoot of the month for the Governor's Cup and "China Mail" Cup. A musketry instructor will be present.

On the morning of the 1st inst., the borders of the Doveton College, Calcutta, locked the gates and put up a board containing the words "no admittance" in chalk and would not permit the new Principal, Rev. Mr. Duthie, into the premises on any account. Mr. Duthie had eventually after several hours' delay to get the assistance of a strong body of police who scaled the wall and opened the door. The matter is now under inquiry.

This discovery that a pretty "girl," aged 17 years, belongs in reality to the sterner sex, has caused a commotion among the inhabitants of Morat, a village in the Canton of Fribourg, Geneva. It appears that the mother had such a horror of compulsory military service, that she had her only child baptised and registered as a girl. For the last seventeen years the boy has worn petticoats and kept the secret. He made such a charming "girl" that he won the hearts of two village swains and received offers of marriage from them. A slight illness led to the discovery, and the young man will be rechristened.

By kind permission of Lieut. Col. A. J. F. F. F.
D.R.O. and Officers, the Band of the 1st Bn.
"The Queen's Own" (Royal West Kent Regt.) will play the following programme of music during dinner at the Hongkong Hotel, tomorrow, 25th inst.
March. Connected.
